Randolph announces candidacy

Former Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph this week announced he will seek the superintendent's position in a special election Saturday, Sept. 11.

Randolph, whose experience also includes 12 years as a teacher and coach, served as superintendent of Hancock County Schools from 1978 to 1980.

His teaching experience includes three years at Hancock North Central High School.

A native of Bay St. Louis and current resident of the Hancock County School District, Randolph attended the Bay St. Louis public schools. He holds a bachelor's degree from University of Southern Mississippi and a master's degree in school administration from Mississippi College.

Randolph is currently administrator of 16th Section school lands for Jackson County School District and is licensed as a real estate agent by the Mississippi Real Estate Commission.

He is the father of two children, Lori, who attends nursing school in Jackson and Terry, a senior at University of Mississippi.

"I would like to express my gratitude to the people of the Hancock County School District for having allowed me to serve previously as superintendent of education," Randolph said.

"I am offering to serve in that office again at this time based on my record during four years in the position."

"There was a $1.5 million surplus in the district's general fund when I left office in 1980, after completing a $1 million program of transportation and capital improvements in the system," the candidate pointed out.

"When I first ran for this office in 1978 I pledged to institute an individualized reading program, to hire qualified teachers, to expand special education services, and to broaden the system's curriculum."

"In keeping those promises, I began a reading tutorial program which met the needs of 360 students daily; brought the level of teacher qualification up to state certification for all teachers; established classes for the deaf, learning disabled and mentally retarded; and instituted speech therapy classes," Randolph explained.

"We added art, speech, journalism, general business and economics to the curriculum."

"Under my administration, we established library services at night for students; initiated county-wide spelling bees; began physical education for elementary students; and supported strong vocational programs," Randolph continued.

"We also provided the first budget for the band program at Hancock North Central," he added.

"Included in the capital improvements made during my first term is one of the finest school cafeterias in the state, the $360,000 Hancock North Central food service facility."

"This facility for the first time allowed the students to have a choice of foods," he noted.

"With your help and support, I pledge during my next term to reinstate an emphasis on the basics of sound education for all school children in the district," Randolph emphasized.

"I hope you will consider my record and efforts for your children, and permit me to serve you again as superintendent."

Waveland animal shelter construction start delayed

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Construction of an animal shelter in Waveland is delayed until the city's engineering firm formulates detailed bid specifications for the facility.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Tuesday night agreed to take three bids received for construction of the facility under advisement after two construction company representatives reported the advertised bid specifications are vague.

Mayor John Longo later in the meeting directed Ray Eaton of Lewis Eaton Partnership of Jackson, to prepare detailed bid specifications so the proposed work could be re-advertised.

Bids received for construction of the concrete block building included a $32,000 quotation from H. and H. Construction Co. and a $27,850 estimate from McIntyre Construction Co.—both are Waveland firms.

Professional Concrete of Bay St. Louis submitted a $2,876 bid for the building's slab construction.

One of the construction company representatives explained the quotations for erection of the building were high because the contractors did not want to underbid the vaguely described project.

The city plans to build the animal shelter next to Central Station at the end of Gulfside Drive.

The facility will also probably be utilized by Bay St. Louis and Hancock County.

Emile Malandra and Cel Dumestre, both of the Bay Waveland Humane Society and Waveland residents, agreed that engineer's specifications are necessary for the project. Malandra said specifications were needed specifically for the building's roof and electrical wiring.

He also reported quotations for the concrete block building are too high. Eaton said the specifications would call for the most economical materials and be compiled as soon as possible.

The board also authorized Longo, the city's representative in the three-member Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District Board of Directors, to sign a letter to the State Department of Natural Resources explaining why the group has not accepted Bay St. Louis' agreement to join the district.

Lucien Gex, city attorney and judge, recommended the letter because Bay St. Louis' agreement was not accepted before an Aug. 1 deadline established by the state.

Although the city board members reviewed copies of the letter, City Clerk and Alderman Barbara Rappold refused to allow the press to view the document.

She said the letter would have to be approved by the wastewater board, which was scheduled to meet Wednesday night, before contents of the letter would be made public.

Rappold and Longo did reveal the letter contained explanations for the district's rejection of Bay St. Louis' agreement, delay in meeting the deadline and intent to form a countywide authority.

Bay St. Louis officials recently drafted an agreement to join the district which contained several stipulations not included in agreements submitted by the county and Waveland, and approved by the wastewater board.

Longo said he is concerned regarding pollution countywide, particularly in the Bay of St. Louis and Jourdan River, the district is not formed soon.

He charged Bay St. Louis could have solved its sewerage problems several years ago by tying into Waveland's system at a cost of $100,000 which would have been paid by the federal government except for some $12,500.

"The longer they (Bay officials) procrastinate it's going to cost the city additional dollars to improve its system," Longo stated.

Regarding the city's Nov. 2 election, the aldermen accepted a recommendation by Rappold to ask representatives of Computer Election Systems Corp. to address the board to explain the company's voting machine system.

She reported the city election occurs the same day of the county's general election every four years and recommended the city purchase its own voting machines since Hancock's devices will be fully utilized at that time.

The city voting machine system will cost some $5,000, Rappold said.

In reference to Waveland's $79,800 in federal revenue sharing funds, Violette Bradford of that city requested the money be allocated for the County Senior Citizens Center in Bay St. Louis.

However, Longo informed Bradford the funds will be spent for more street lights and garbage disposal improvements.

"Everybody in the city enjoys the street lights," the mayor stated.

Regarding a $400,000 federal community block grant, the aldermen accepted a recommendation by Eaton to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo a 5 day and 24 hour hearing to receive the citizens' opinions in reference to the use of those funds.

But Longo said the money will be used to re-roof the City Civic Center and improve the sewage system.

In other business at the 7:30 p.m. regular meeting at City Hall, the aldermen:

—Authorized Longo to sign a government form delaying a $400 final payment for the city's last sewerage, water and drainage study until Sept. 30 as recommended by Eaton;

—Authorized a change order to the City Library renovation and expansion project underway to install kitchen cabinets at a cost of $300 plus labor fees; —Authorized a $28,696 initial payment to B.W. Construction Co. of Hattiesburg in the $124,000 library renovation project;

—Authorized $255 in telephone wiring work at Central Station and a $9-per-month fee for the service. Longo said the wiring would allow the Police and Fire Departments to move all operations from their low lying headquarters behind City Hall to the station in the event of a hurricane;

—Authorized a $35 advertisement in a Joppla Temple of Gulfport program;

—Authorized the city tax collector to collect automobile taxes based on a state assessment schedule;

—Accepted a resolution drafted by Gex requesting a $27,500 loan from Merchants Bank and Trust Co. to purchase property on the north side of US-90 owned by Nicholas Haas and John Auderer which will be utilized as a water tower site;

—Accepted a recommendation by the City Planning and Zoning Commission to approve the subdivision of a lot near Waveland Elementary School owned by the McDonald-Overall Corp;

—Discussed the information to be inscribed on a plaque to be placed on the library building after the project is completed;

—Heard a report from Blossman Gas, Inc. representatives requesting the city convert its transportation fleet to propane fuel. Longo requested an estimate from the company.

World's Fair pr chief to address Hancock Chamber

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The publicity committee of the Hancock County 1984 Louisiana World Exposition Council met Thursday at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

It was the first meeting of the group which is part of the steering committee on the fair to be held in New Orleans in 1984 and the effects which can be expected in Hancock County.

Mack Herring, public information officer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at NSTL, was appointed chairman for the publicity committee by David Treutel, Hancock County Chamber director and general chairman of the recently organized steering committee.

Herring said, "The main reason for this first meeting is to prepare a comprehensive public relations package be presented to the steering committee."

Discussions were held about the ways and means of having Hancock's story reach the visitors from the states which will use the highways of the area to reach New Orleans for the 1984 fair.

The publication of a fact sheet about Hancock County and also a preliminary press release to be sent to the travel editors in nearby states is to be prepared by the publicity committee.

The fact sheet when completed is to be placed at the welcome centers and various businesses frequented by visitors.

Bay Council applies for $2.5 million loan

By BRENT MACEY

The Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday agreed to submit a preapplication to the Farmers Home Loan Association requesting a $2.5 million loan to construct a sewer line across the outskirts of the city.

The line would service the new Bay Cove Marina Village Townhouse Subdivision complex as well as the annexed areas of this city.

Councilman James Thriftley III stated, "It's an excellent plan since it provides for people from east to west."

Ray Eaton, project engineer with the Lewis and Eaton Partnership of Jackson, stated the line would be capable of handling future growth in the city as well as providing services for those citizens currently living in the annexed areas.

Preliminary plans call for construction of a 24 inch sewer line to run from Felicity Street to Blue Meadow Road, south along Blue Meadow Road to US-90, west along US-90 to Bouslog Street and then south down Bouslog Street to the Bay St. Louis Sewage Lagoon.

Although the plan also calls for some gas and water line installation, Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett claimed Thursday that the amount is minimal.

Eaton told the council a final application must follow the preliminary application before funding can be obtained.

He noted the FHMA must first apply LOAN—Page 2A

Two nabbed in robbery

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Two persons have been arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with the July 2 armed robbery of two computer employees of Hancock Bank, working on the HandyBank at the US-90 Branch in Bay St. Louis.

The two arrested have been identified by Weldon Kennedy, special agent in charge of the FBI in Mississippi, as Donald Paul Coston, 25, charged with bank robbery and aiding and abetting bank robbery, and William Gene Kennell, 24, charged with bank robbery. Both men are residents of Gulfport.

Coston was arrested by FBI agents in Colorado Springs on July 29, and Kennell was arrested in Harrison County on July 31.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams reported that on the night of July 2, two HandyBank repairmen were forced back into the bank by two men as they were leaving after making repairs.

He said, "The two employees were then tied up and robbed of $85 in personal cash. The FBI was notified the next day when bank auditors realized an undetermined amount of cash was removed from the HandyBank."

An investigation was conducted by Bay police and the Hancock Sheriff's office and the FBI.

Bond was set at $50,000 each for Kennell and Coston.

Main Street repairs to begin, parking restricted

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Resurfacing work is scheduled to begin Monday, Aug. 9 in the 100 block of Main Street, Bay St. Louis, and parking will be restricted, according to Mayor Larry Bennett.

Bennett said, "City workmen will place 'No Parking' signs as repairs are made to water and gas leaks, and curbs are repaired in preparation for resurfacing."

We will try to keep the inconveniences to motorists as little as possible, but, persons ignoring the no parking signs will have their vehicles towed off," Bennett explained.

Bennett stated the no parking restrictions will enable city workers get the repairs completed without too many delays.

YMCA added as United Way funded agency

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County United Way Board of Directors recently agreed to add the Mississippi Gulf Coast Young Men's Christian Association as the 15th agency to receive funds from the local organization.

The YMCA will receive $500 from the United Way's 1982 fundraising campaign slated to begin Sept. 1.

Ellis Cuevas, United Way treasurer, at a recent board meeting reported the YMCA has begun youth programs at several area schools and is sponsoring weightlifting classes at the Waveland Civic Center.

Gene Rogers, YMCA Youth Alternative Action program director, recently in Gulfport said the organization is seeking a swimming pool in Hancock in order to begin youth swimming instructions here.

He estimates if proper facilities were available that some 400 youths in this county would benefit from YMCA weightlifting and swimming programs.

The Hancock United Way presently contributes funds to the County American Red Cross, Firemen's Doll and Toy Fund, Senior Citizens Program, Blood Bank and Emergency Relief Fund; the Boy Scouts-Cypress District; the Girl Scouts' Gulf Pines Council; Catholic Social Services; Gulf Coast Mental Health Center; Retired Senior Volunteer Program; U.S.O.-Worldwide; Goodwill Industries of South Mississippi, Inc.; Mississippi Council on Epilepsy, Inc.; and Salvation Army.

County Agent's Notes

by John Smith

STOPPING PESTS

The days of farmers shooting a blast of poison at every insect in sight are a thing of the past. Today's farmer depends on more sophisticated ways to stop pests that compete for crop yields.

One way farmers are handling insects and a combination of other crop pests is by participating in a pest management program directed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The program known as integrated pest management gives a farmer the upper hand against a variety of crop conditions. For a small fee, the farmer can have crops checked for insects, diseases, weeds, crop growth and soil fertility.

Soybean farmers in 19 counties in the state are already taking part in the pest management program. More than 62,000 acres of soybeans are involved in the program which is built on a team effort of farmers, trained scouts, extension specialists and the county extension office.

Trained scouts inspect crop under supervision of the county extension agent and other crop specialists. The scouts carry out the necessary activities so the farmer can get on with more pressing jobs.

The farmer has the advantage of knowing that his crops are being carefully monitored for insects, disease and other conditions. In most cases, the farmer doesn't have time to do all these himself.

If you want to find out more about extension pest management programs, call or drop by the county extension office. (Source: Dr. Jim Hamer)

UPSET THE CART
At this stage, farmers certainly don't want anything that might interfere with their chances to make a normal crop. Weeds and insects do, so that means they especially need to be controlled.

It might seem a little early to think about harvesting, but farmers need to have equipment ready. Few things are as discouraging as equipment problems at harvest.

Farmers are good about thinking ahead, about how they will harvest soybeans and about what's needed to get fall pastures ready for planting.

Our crops yields this fall can be good if farmers have a little luck with the weather. (Source: Dr. Kelton Anderson)

BE SAFE, NOT SORRY

No one should ever feel safe when their young children are riding in or playing on tractors and other farm equipment. Hundreds of injured and killed youngsters each year are tragic reminders.

The best way to stop a possible tragedy is to adopt a "no rider" rule—and no exceptions. Even a cab isn't completely safe. Children have fallen out when the door jars open. And a small child can fall out of an open window. (Source: Dannie Reed)

TOMATOES UNTIL FROST
You gardeners can have fresh tomatoes until frost if you take care of your plants. That means keeping out diseases and insect pests.

One key to successful gardening is spraying for leaf diseases and insects. You also need to water when rain is scarce and fertilize plants every four to six weeks.

Break off suckers on plants as needed. When suckers are allowed to develop, the fruit is smaller. Keep the plants tied up so the vines won't touch the soil and rot the fruit. (Source: Dr. Milo Burnham)

Holly Springs college offering financial aid

Applications for admission and financial aid are available at Rust College in Holly Springs for any student interested in attending in the fall of 1982, according to Fannie L. Lampley, director of admissions and student financial aid.

Traditionally, Rust College is known as a liberal arts institution, however, its academic curriculum includes professional and pre-professional programs in mass communications, computer science, pre-engineering, medical technology, and other health related professions.

TURF WEED CONTROL

Chemicals can take a lot of work out of weed control in the home lawn. For most weeds in bermudagrass and zoysiagrass lawns, the herbicide MSMA is a good choice.

Rates for using MSMA vary, but the mixture is about right when the turf just starts to yellow or a slight tip burn occurs on the grass. For tough weed problems like dallisgrass, bahiagrass, and goosegrass, you need to repeat the treatment every 10 to 20 days.

You can safely apply MSMA on newly established bermudagrass lawns after two or three mowings or when the root systems are active and extensive. (Source: Dr. Wayne Houston)

SHRUBS NEED ATTENTION

Don't neglect the new shrubs you transplanted this spring. They will need special attention to stand up to the summer.

Shrubs need plenty of water on hot summer days. Water them at least twice a week during dry spells. Young shrubs need four to five gallons of water each week that it doesn't rain.

A good layer of mulch around shrubs will conserve moisture. Use a three to six inch layer of pine straw, pine needles, leaves or compost. (Source: Jim Perry)

Pair arrested in raid

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics and Hancock County Sheriff's officers arrested two persons Tuesday in connection with a quantity of narcotics found in the search of a northwest county residence.

Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson reported, "Emmett O'Neal Bull, 47, 210 Francis St., Pass Christian, was arrested and charged with the sale of demerol, two counts; sale of morphine, one count; sale of cocaine, one count; delivering of cocaine, one count; and sale of methaqualone, two counts. Stacey Lynn Lizana, 19, 228 Rose Hart, also of Pass Christian, is charged with alleged possession of cocaine, dilaudid, demerol and amphetamines."

A search warrant was issued by Justice Court Judge Meredith Anderson and we found cocaine, hashish, demerol, dilaudid, and amphetamines at the residence in Hancock County," Peterson stated.

The sheriff said Bull had been the object of an extensive investigation by the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics over the past year. He is alleged to have made several sales to undercover agents.

Bull is also reported to be on probation by the Federal Probation and Parole Board.

Peterson stated, "We feel Bull has been responsible for the sale of numerous drugs in Hancock County."

The search included Peterson, Hancock Investigator Alvin Ladner, and Hancock Deputy David Murtagh and six Bureau of Narcotics officers.

A bond of $500,000 has been set for Bull and $400,000 for Lizana. A preliminary hearing is scheduled before Judge Anderson.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Notice is hereby given that the Hancock County Board of Supervisors will on Tuesday, September 7, 1982, at 1:30 p.m. in the Boardroom in the Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis, Miss., hold a public hearing on proposed Redistricting of Hancock County.

Public comments, both written and oral, on the proposed redistricting are invited.

A map of the redistricting proposal is available for inspection in the office of the Hancock County Chancery Clerk.

Two of my all-time dessert favorites, from earliest memory and taste, are those staples of the thrifty but elegant cuisine of the Creoles and other Southern cooks... rice pudding or custard and bread pudding.

I'd been hungry for some time for a taste of truly "ole time" rice custard, creamier than creamy, made atop the stove rather than baked in the oven - but I couldn't put my hands on the old recipe, and couldn't seem to get it right, try as I might.

Then Marilyn Favre came to the rescue with her

CREAMY RICE PUDDING

1 cup cooked rice
1 cup milk
3 Tablespoons sugar
1 Tablespoon butter or oleo
4 Tablespoons Vanilla
Pinch of salt, only if rice has not been salted

Combine all ingredients except vanilla. Stir over medium heat until mixture thickens, about 20 minutes. Remove from the heat and stir in the vanilla. Serve cold or hot (two servings).

And for a variation, try Marilyn's VELVET RICE CUSTARD, the same as above, except that you let the mixture cool, then fold in a half cup of Cool Whip. Delicious!

And for that other triumph of the kitchen, here's

BREAD PUDDING

WITH WHISKEY SAUCE

1 loaf French bread
1 quart milk
3 eggs, beaten
2 cups sugar
3 Tablespoons oleo or butter
1 cup raisins
2 apples, peeled and cut then
Soak the bread in the milk, crushing bread with hands until well mixed. Add eggs, sugar, vanilla, raisins and apples. Mix well. Pour melted butter or oleo over mixture. Bake in a heavy pan until firm, with the oven at 350 degrees. (Probably about 45 minutes or so).

And for the whiskey sauce:
1 stick butter or oleo
1 cup sugar
1 egg
whiskey or rum to taste

Cook the sugar and butter in a double boiler until very hot, and sugar well dissolved. Add the beaten egg, and beat the mixture very fast with a whip. Let cool, add the whiskey or rum or brandy. Spread over pudding, put under broiler until brown (not dark) and bubbly. Enjoy! (Copyright, 1982, Katharine D. M. Caire)

Bits 'n pieces

Folks at St. Clare's Catholic Church will try again this week to get their fair completed.

As you know, mother nature with the downpours on Saturday and Sunday caused many events not to even get started much less completed.

We are in hopes good weather will be here Saturday and Sunday for the big fund raiser.

We know a lot of persons have put a lot of effort into preparing for the many events at the annual fair.

So if you are looking for something to do this weekend, you may want to visit St. Clare's Fair.

Several months ago everyone was trying to get their gardens going, and were having problems for a lack of moisture.

Our grounds are now in a super saturated condition because of the almost daily downpours. Nature has its way no matter what we do, so we have to do the best we can, and we have to make changes in our plans sometimes.

Weather has effects on many things today, as it has throughout civilization.

So we hope the weather will be nice for our many friends in our native city of Waveland this weekend.

While talking about the weather, we got our share of rain Sunday, when we drove for four hours through heavy downpours after three hours of fog, on a return trip from north Alabama.

We were at a meeting attended by Jerry Whittle, whom many of you will recall was the managing editor and general manager of the Echo about five years ago.

As many of you know, Jerry left here to become the publisher of the newspaper in Thompson, Ga.

Jerry said to tell all of his friends hello. He still seems to be the same as ever, only a little heavier.

The folks in Georgia must really be treating him good, as it seems he hasn't missed a meal since leaving the Bay, as a matter of a fact, he seems to have added several extra meals a day.

He said he plays golf every Wednesday afternoon, which is popular with many folks in our area.

Trash, trash, and more trash, we wonder if it will ever stop.

A subscriber was complaining to us on Monday about how some people are making a garbage dump out of the area by the Ulman Avenue pier.

It seems to us that folks would have more respect for their fellowman.

We visited the area and found all type of debris, such as drink containers, paper, chicken bones, and all types of unsightly trash.

The pier has been constructed for the pleasure and fun of everyone wanting to use the facilities.

It seems there is a need for everyone to just take their trash and properly dispose of it at home.

Garbage is collected twice-a-week in both Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

We are hoping one of these days for the police to tighten down and issue tickets for persons caught littering with some good follow through of stiff fines by judges.

It seems there may be a need for volunteers at the order of judges to do some trash collecting.

Our communities seem to continue growing and one area of the greatest growth in recent years has been the library system.

It wasn't too many years ago when we only had an old wooden frame building on Court Street for the entire county.

The continued growth is evidenced by the large extension project underway currently at the Waveland Branch.

The work is being funded by a grant secured from the Mississippi Library System and matched funds from the City of Waveland, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, and additional help from the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77 of Waveland Bay St. Louis Rotary Club.

We are very proud of our library system in Hancock County, and hope to see the continued growth.

There are so many people involved, and many go back many years, to each and everyone, we say thanks for a job well done.

OUR CITIZEN—

lowers property values. There is nothing like litter to drive away buyers of real estate, shoppers from stores, residents from a neighborhood, tourists from a recreation area. If a community is to gain a reputation as a clean and orderly place in which to live each and every citizen must do his or her bit to make it so. Promote community clean-up and beautification in your area.

Bay resident reports litany of city woes

August 2, 1982

To The Editor:
Sea Coast Echo
Dear Sir:

Mayor Bennett tells us that if we turn our city tax collecting over to the County we had just as well put a "For Sale" sign on City Hall.

I can see many other reasons to agree with Warren Carver in saying a "For Sale" sign might be a good idea, even though I feel sure some of our present woes were born and nurtured during his administration as mayor.

Today we have only one clean place in Bay St. Louis, and that is around City Hall - I am speaking for beautification. We have two playgrounds for our children - only one is kept in a safe condition for them.

City Hall blames vandalism for the deplorable condition of the other.

Perhaps if City Hall showed more concern for the other one, the vandals might respect it more.

We are told the City has "only" one lawn mower for grass cutting.

We are paying a private contractor $1,785 at three week intervals to cut the grass. See any noticeable results?

All our heavy equipment is unusable - too expensive to repair - and they tell us there is no money to buy new replacements.

Not too long ago I followed one of our maintenance trucks on a ten mile goose chase at 40 miles per hour until I lost him in traffic.

Upon reporting it to the Mayor I was told that he had to have the truck number before he could reprimand the driver.

That only leads me to wonder how many of these joy rides we pay for each day.

Not too long ago I attended an open council meeting and sat there in wonderment when I realized that my councilman was getting up and going into the hall everytime an issue came up that he apparently chose not to commit himself to.

Relating to the issues that came up that night and there were quite a number. Ward 2 had little or no representation even though our representative was present but deliberately chose not to commit himself in representing us.

I feel sure it would not be a bad idea - and it just might keep the "For Sale" sign from going up - if we transferred some of our "city hall chiefs" out as indians on the work force.

It's safe to say we wouldn't get a full day's work, but it might reduce the payroll.

Speaking of payroll, on July 16, I called Mayor Bennett for some legal advice. He could not advise me, so he assured me he would consult our city attorney and get back with me.

On July 20 after a meeting I attended at City Hall, I approached the Mayor, and was told that he had consulted the attorney who in turn told him that the issue required research.

Bennett told me that he had not pursued the question any further because the attorney worked for such a small salary he hated to bother him for such trifling matters - not necessarily in those exact words, but he did write himself a note to call the attorney the next day and assured me that he would be in touch as soon as he had information.

Well, August 2 - time of this writing - and no response. I am wondering if I am going to have to wait until he can raise Joe's salary before I get my answer?

This last sentence is not in criticism of our good attorney.

Thanks
Earl Lizana

THE BUDGET-BALANCING ACT

"Fueled by a grass-roots movement for fiscal restraint, a balanced budget and tax limitation amendment to the U.S. Constitution is gathering momentum in both Congress and the state legislatures."

With those words, a Washington-based think tank detailed issues involved in one of the nation's fastest-growing ideas: a Constitutional amendment which would force Congress to balance the federal budget.

Why is Congress beginning to pay more attention to this idea? The answer could lie in the fact that 31 states already have adopted resolutions calling for a Constitutional convention, only three short of the necessary number to convene a convention.

That would be the unusual way to amend the Constitution. Since the original document, every amendment has been approved by a two-thirds vote of both houses of Congress, then ratified by at least three-fourths of the states.

With the public debt approaching $1 trillion, efforts to secure a Constitutional change have intensified. The blame for the debt rests squarely on the shoulders of the federal government which has produced a balanced budget only twice in the last 23 years.

I am supporting the proposed amendment because, without appropriate restraints, Congress simply does not have the will power or ability to control spending. It is unfortunate, but I think history bears out that statement.

In fact, it is curious that there is much opposition at all to the proposed amendment. Here's what Section 1 says:

"Prior to each fiscal year, the Congress shall adopt a statement of receipts and outlays for that year in which total outlays are no greater than total receipts. The Congress may amend such statement provided revised receipts are no greater than revised receipts."

"Whenever three-fifths of the whole number of both houses shall deem it necessary, Congress in such statement may provide for a specific excess of outlays over receipts by a vote directed solely to that subject. The Congress and the President shall ensure that actual outlays do not exceed the outlays set forth in such statement."

Section 2 of the proposal links the growth in revenues to the rate of growth in national income. If the Gross National Product rose by two percent, for example, tax receipts could not rise by a greater percentage than in the next fiscal year.

Of course, there must be a means of assuring adequate funding for the national emergency and the proposed

Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

I read with surprise the discussion by the City Council about saving the taxpayers of Bay St. Louis some $41,000 per year by eliminating the City Tax Collector's function.

I couldn't understand the position of the mayor and two of the councilmen.

According to the 1980 census, there were 7,891 residents in Bay St. Louis. That savings of $41,000 would mean a yearly savings of over $5 in taxes for each man, woman and child in the city, or well over $20 per year for the average property owner.

The present system requires a Waveland property owner to pay taxes in three places, and a Bay St. Louis owner to go to two places. How wonderfully convenient it would be to pay all of our property taxes in one place, and save money by doing so.

Nationally, taxpayers are showing more and more resentment to waste and empire building by politicians with our tax dollars. The above incident is one of many which indicates where the loyalties of some of our elected officials lie.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Governor William Winter has announced that eight forums addressing education and economic development in Mississippi will be held across the state during September and October.

The forums, sponsored by the governor's office and concerned citizens, are slated for Sept. 7 in Oxford High School, Sept. 9 in Vicksburg Junior High School, September 13 in Columbus at Joe Cobb Junior High School, September 14 in Greenville at the Washington County Convention Center, Sept. 21 in Jackson at Siwell Junior High School, Sept. 23 in Laurel at R.H. Watkins High School, Oct. 12 in Meridian at Meridian High School and Oct. 19 in Pascagoula at Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College. Each forum is scheduled for 7 p.m.

"Mississippi cannot progress economically until we progress educationally," said Winter, who will attend each forum.

"It is in the interest of every person in this state to support measures which will ensure that our young people receive a quality education."

"With well-educated citizens, we can attract industry as well as reduce crime, unemployment, and our welfare burden," he said. "It's time Mississippi gave itself a chance."

"The forums will give the citizens of Mississippi an opportunity to be heard on the direction education and economic development should take in our state," said Winter. "I plan to make a maximum effort to pass legislation on these crucial issues and hope everyone will join me in this cause by attending the forums."

Persons desiring additional information concerning education and/or the forums should contact the Governor's Service line (toll free) at 1-800-222-7622. In Jackson, call 861-4042.

WHAT IS HARDENING OF THE ARTERIES?

A common form of hardening of the arteries is atherosclerosis. It occurs when fatty deposits in the blood stream build up on the inner walls of the arteries. People who have atherosclerosis are more likely to suffer a heart attack or stroke. The risk of developing atherosclerosis can be reduced by observing a diet low in saturated fats and cholesterol. BPC eyeing Hancock wastewater agreements

By BRENT MACEY
Although both Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County have been attempting to finalize an agreement to enter into a county-wide wastewater management scheme together, their efforts apparently are not what the Bureau of Pollution Control has expected.

Calab Dana, staff coordinator with the BPC, said Monday, "Their agreements look more like resolutions to negotiate details of a service agreement."

Dana said the bureau was expecting a service agreement. And he said the three governing bodies in Hancock County have not gone far enough toward developing what the BPC wants.

"We were anticipating a more detailed contract," he added.

The three governing bodies, as well as all other coastal communities along the Gulf Coast, have been under a mandate to develop a detailed contract before Aug. 1, 1982.

According to Dana, that contract should concern definition of terms and a description of responsibilities, each governing body would assume when joining a county-wide wastewater management scheme.

"It would lay down the preliminary ground work of how each entity would interact with each other," he said.

He noted the staff at the BPC feels that Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County have not accomplished this.

Whether or not the BPC will choose to punish the three entities for failing to formulate an agreement before Aug. 1, has not yet been decided, Dana said.

He noted punishments laid down by the Commission on Natural Resources, the governing board of the BPC, include not allowing subdivisions or any other areas outside the city, to connect to a city treatment facility at a future date.

Whether or not that punishment will be imposed has not been determined.

Dana said he expects the issue to be discussed when the Department of Natural Resources meets Aug. 11.

"It is my feeling that the commission will stand firm," he said.

Dana noted the communities in Harrison County are in a similar position as Hancock.

However, those governing entities have apparently come closer to fulfilling the expectations of the BPC.

Dana said the Harrison County governments originally developed resolutions similar to those developed in Hancock County.

However, Harrison County officials were notified that those resolutions would not be acceptable to the commission. The BPC in turn, forwarded sample contract agreements of a type that would be acceptable.

After reviewing those agreements, Harrison officials began working on a type of agreement which would be acceptable to the BPC.

Dana said that final contract agreement is expected to be completed by Aug. 11.

Supervisors nix Bay's wastewater agreement

By BRENT MACEY
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday agreed to stand by its former resolution to join a county wastewater management program and rejected adopting an amended version of that resolution as proposed by the Bay St. Louis City Council.

Although the Bay St. Louis City Council has agreed in principle to join a county managed wastewater district, its agreement to join differed from the agreement which has now been endorsed by both Waveland and the county.

The county and Waveland have agreed to a district governed by a three member board—composed of the mayors of both cities and the president of the board of supervisors.

Bay St. Louis, in its resolution, requested the governing body be comprised of six people, two from the county, and two representatives from each of the two cities.

It also requested the name of the district be changed from the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District to the Hancock County Regional Wastewater Management District.

Other changes requested by the council include:

Having each entity in the management district have veto power; and that each entity pay 100 percent of the cost it incurs.

—Allowing the City of Bay St. Louis to use a lagoon method of treating sewage.

—Appointing a secretary for the district who is not an elected official or an employee of any of the three governmental entities now participating in the district.

Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner noted the changes requested by Bay St. Louis would have to be agreed to by the State Legislature and changed through legislative action. Establishment of the Waveland Regional Management Wastewater District has already been approved by that body.

He added, "I think we ought to back it (the resolution) the way it is."

The board agreed unanimously to endorse the same resolution it had adopted previously. That resolution and the one adopted by the City of Waveland are now identical.

All three governing bodies—Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County—are under a mandate by the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control to join some type of management scheme before Aug. 1 of this year.

What action will be taken against the City of Bay St. Louis, was not clear as of Monday.

MICHOUD DIRECTOR—Douglas D. Hart has been named director of program development at the Martin Marietta Aerospace Michoud division, replacing Joseph C. Spencer. Spencer was transferred to the company's Denver, Colo. operation. Hart was previously marketing manager for Future Systems at the Denver Aerospace operation. Born in Hastings, Neb., Hart served in the United States Air Force for five years. He then attended Regis College in Denver, graduating in 1959 with a bachelor's degree in business administration. He joined Martin Marietta in Denver in 1956 as a technical training instructor. In 1960, he joined the Marketing staff and worked in Advanced Programs, the Skylab program and then Titan III launch vehicle programs. In 1977 he was appointed field office manager at the Corporation's field office in Omaha, Nebraska, a position he held until joining the Future Systems organization in 1980. Hart is a member of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA) and the Air Force Association (AFA). Martin Marietta's Michoud division manufactures the giant Space Shuttle external tanks under contract to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center.

Federal agency seeking changes in powerline

A U.S. government agency is seeking changes in the proposed route through St. Tammany Parish of a controversial 500-kilovolt powerline.

The New Orleans Times Picayune Wednesday reported the proposed changes to Louisiana portions of the line which will run through Hancock and Harrison Counties and a portion of Jackson County in Mississippi.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is proposing a second alternate route for the high-voltage transmission line—this one north of an area federal officials want to add to a wildlife refuge in eastern St. Tammany.

The service last month suggested a route south of the Bogue Chitto National Wildlife Refuge, which is 19 miles south of the route planned by Gulf States Utilities Co. The utility disagrees with this proposal.

The new proposal also may fall on unsympathetic ears because some members of the parish council already have made public their preference for the route planned by GSU.

The utility company is asking council approval to cross parish roads in building a 20-mile stretch of the 500,000-volt power line across northern St. Tammany.

The council apparently is the only public agency that has not yet approved the GSU route. GSU already has obtained the parish rights of way from East Feliciana, St. Helena, Washington and Tangipahoa parishes.

The entire 60-mile line, estimated to cost at least $140 million, would connect GSU's McKnight substation in East Feliciana Parish to a Mississippi Power Co. line on the Pearl River about 10 miles northwest of Picayune.

In St. Tammany, the line would pass through Pearl River Basin south of Lock No. 3 on the Pearl River Navigation Channel to connect with the Mississippi Power line on the border of the two states.

Gulf States Utilities officials say the line would be used to bring surplus coal-generated electrical power to Louisiana customers. They say the coal-generated energy is cheaper than the natural gas-generated power available in Louisiana.

Area federal officials "are negotiating to purchase to include in the Bogue Chitto refuge."

Dan Tabberer, manager of the refuge, said he will urge GSU to route the power line north of this area. He said this second alternative route would pass six miles north of the route favored by GSU.

Special election scheduled Sept. 11

By BRENT MACEY
A special election to fill the unexpired term of Hancock County School Superintendent Billy D. Sills has been set for Sept. 11 by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Sills was removed from office last week after he pled guilty to embezzlement fraud in Hancock County Circuit Court.

He was charged with accepting $1,000 from Bay Contractors—a company hired by the school board to repair Gullyview Elementary School after it was damaged by a tornado in May of 1980.

As a result of the guilty plea, Sills was automatically removed from office. A five year prison sentence was suspended and Sills was placed on probation for three years. He was also ordered to pay $9,000 restitution to the Hancock County School Board.

After discussing the date with election commissioner John V. Ladner, Walter Phillips, acting attorney for the supervisors, noted the election must be held within 60 days of the office being vacated. Thirty days must follow the announcement of the special election.

Candidates must qualify at least 10 days prior to the election.

In other business at the supervisors' meeting, the board changed the date set for a public hearing on county redistricting to Sept. 7, at 1:30 p.m. in the Board Room of the Hancock County Courthouse.

An advertisement run previously was discovered to be incorrect and thus required the date be changed.

Also Monday, the board:

—Accepted the real and personal property rolls;

—Accepted the 1982-83 budget of $4,796,969. The entire budget will be published in an upcoming edition of The Sea Coast Echo.

—Agreed to apply for a part of some $33 million available to Mississippi through The Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program. If any money is received by the county, the supervisors agreed to spend it on recreational projects in the county, especially the construction of baseball diamonds. Ron Murray of Ron Murray Consultants, agreed to discuss exact recreational needs in the county with each of the five supervisors.

—Approved allowing Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co. to cross Cuevas Town Road and Brown Road in order to connect lines from the Hunt Energy Co. Gas Well with Tennessee Gas. The project is expected to take some two months to complete.

Hancock jobless rate highest yet this year

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County's unemployment rate rose to 8.4 percent in June, according to recently released Mississippi Employment Service figures.

The June rate is the highest jobless figure reported thus far in 1982 and is nine-tenths of a percentage point higher than the previous month's rate.

However, the local figure is lower than the record-breaking statewide unemployment rate of 11.6 percent and national figure of 9.8 percent in the same period.

The state jobless rate is the highest recorded for the state since Mississippi began keeping employment records which was just after the Depression. Some 800 are reported as unemployed in Hancock out of an available civilian labor force of 9,370 based on the state report.

The county's second highest 1982 jobless rate was 7.8 percent which was recorded in January.

A list of occupational salary ranges was also recently released by the state agency (See chart).

The report lists the highest paid occupation as an industrial engineer receiving an average of $11.76-per-hour.

A janitor, porter or cleaner is listed as the lowest paid Mississippi occupation in which the average earning is $3.87-per-hour.

Mississippi's June unemployment rate rose 1.6 percent compared to May's jobless rate of 10 percent, Mississippi Employment Security Commission Executive Director O.H. Simmons reports.

Last year's June unemployment rate was 9.1 percent.

Commission figures show 123,100 unemployed and 936,100 employed out of a statewide civilian labor force of 1,059,200.

"Initial unemployment insurance claims totaled 25,394 in June," Simmons states.

"Some 63 of the state's 82 counties had unemployment rates of 10 percent or higher in June. Of that number, six counties had unemployment rates in excess of 20 percent," he notes.

Counties with the highest unemployment rates in June are Jefferson with 23.4 percent, Walthall with 21.7 percent, and Green with 21.3 percent.

Issaquena, Rankin, and Yalobusha counties list the lowest jobless rates in June with Issaquena at 5.2 percent, Rankin at 5.5 percent, and Yalobusha at 6.9 percent.

Some 78 counties show an increase in unemployment rates from May to June, while three reported decreases. The unemployment rate in one county remained the same," Simmons adds.

Mauffrays to mark 50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John C. (Peck) Mauffray of Kiln will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday, August 8 with a 2 p.m., renewal of vows in Annunciation Catholic Church. A reception will follow at the Mauffray home on East River Road. Friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Mr. Mauffray is the son of the late Claude and Bess Mauffray, and Mrs. Mauffray, the former Willetta Garriga, is the daughter of the late Oliver and Anna Garriga.

Attending the couple will be Margie Johnston and Woodrow Mauffray.

Bay schools report registration schedules, admission requirements

Registration for new students in the Bay-Waveland Municipal Separate School District for the 1982-83 term begins Monday and runs through Friday, Aug. 13 in the offices of the various schools during regular office hours, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Elementary students in grades one through five and living inside the city limits of Bay St. Louis and the unincorporated areas of the school district will register at North Bay Elementary School.

Elementary students through fifth grade living inside the city limits of Waveland will register at Waveland Elementary School.

All students in grades six through eight living within the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District will register at the Bay Junior High School located at North Second Street and Carroll Avenue.

Students in grades 9 through 12 and living within the school district will register at the Bay Senior High School on Blue Meadow Road.

Superintendent J.D. McCullough stated that registering first grade students must be accompanied by their parents and bring their birth certificates proving that they will be six years old as of Sept. 1, 1982.

All students must have the following immunization shots for the 1982-83 school term as required by Senate Bill No. 2650 of the Regular Session of the 1978 Legislature, before they can officially enroll in school:

Diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, polio, measles, rubella.

Parents must secure the special school certificates from the local health department or a private physician.

All cafeteria workers must have health cards updated, McCullough added.

New admission requirements for Mississippi's public universities go into effect in the fall of 1982.

Students entering the ninth grade this fall who expect to enter college in the fall of 1986 should contact their school officials for details of courses required.

All schools will begin classes on Tuesday, Aug. 17.

The first two weeks of school will be on a 60 percent school day schedule. Elementary School at Waveland beginning at 8:15 a.m. and ending at 12:35 p.m. North Bay Elementary beginning at 8:30 a.m. and ending at 1 p.m. Both Junior and Senior High will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 1:30 p.m. All students lunches will be served each day.

Faculty workshop meetings will be held on Monday, Aug. 16 from 9 a.m. to noon at the following schools: Grades one through five at North Bay and Waveland Elementary Schools, grades six through eight at Bay Junior High School, and grades nine through 12 at Bay Senior High School.

A joint meeting of all school personnel will be held on Monday, Aug. 16 at 2 p.m. in the Senior High School Library located on Blue Meadow Road.

Regular hours will begin Monday, Aug. 30 with the school day at Waveland Elementary beginning at 8:15 a.m. and ending at 2:35 p.m.

Hancock County schools registration scheduled

Registration at all Hancock County Schools will be conducted Aug. 11-13 for students who did not attend Hancock County Schools last year or who did not pre-register during the Spring.

William Haddock, superintendent, said students may register from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on these days.

In order to register, new students must have a health certificate of compliance which may be secured from the Hancock County Health Department or a local physician.

In addition, new students must present a certified copy of their birth certificate, and any records from schools previously attended.

Busing routes will be essentially the same as last year.

Hancock County teachers are to report to their respective schools at 8 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 16.

At Hancock North Central Elementary, Charles B. Murphy Elementary, and Gulfview Elementary the first day of regular attendance will be Tuesday, August 17, 1982.

Perniciaro takes master's in unique graduation event

For the first time since 1935, the year of its first graduation, the University of Houston did not hold a general, campus-wide graduation ceremony, choosing instead to recognize 1982 graduates through smaller ceremonies in the individual colleges on the central campus.

Chancellor Barry Muntz explained that the individual colleges began honoring their graduates in separate ceremonies following the general commencement four years ago to better recognize all the students receiving degrees.

Muntz said, "The faculty, students and administration all desired a more personal recognition of the graduates, an event where students and their families could meet with the college's faculty. It was apparent after watching the college commencements grow larger each year, that this was the most meaningful system, and the general convocation had become superfluous."

Approximately 4,600 students received their diplomas at the 13 different commencements this spring.

All summer and winter 1981 graduates and spring 1982 graduates were honored at the ceremony.

Among the graduates was Mary Elizabeth (Betty) Perniciaro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph V. Perniciaro of Washington Road, Bay St. Louis.

She took a MBA in management-accounting.

SENIOR CITIZEN HAPPENINGS

By EVE McDONALD

Watermelon Party

The Senior Center Advisory Council sponsored a shrimp boil at Buccaneer Park last week. We must have had between 80 and 90 seniors enjoying all the shrimp they could eat, with delicious homemade potato salad and drinks.

Special guests were Supervisor and Mrs. Sammy Periniello, Supervisor James Travira, Chancery Clerk E. Michael Nease, and Ms. Pat Harvill from Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home.

The guests were given a round of applause for their long standing support of our programs.

The watermelon party was given by Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home and Security Savings. Again, all you could eat! Everyone enjoyed the summer outing. It is just such a beautiful place to go and enjoy our million dollar view!

Military Mention

SGT. McDONALD

Marine Sgt. Kelley S. McDonald, son of Fred S. and Frances S. McDonald of 119 Washington St., Bay St. Louis, has reported for duty with Marine Attack Squadron-542, Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N.C.

SGT. BROWN

Staff Sgt. Bruce E. Brown, son of Willie W. and Rita E. Brown of 342 Mercier Ave., Pass Christian, has reenlisted in the U.S. Air Force at Barksdale Air Force Base, La., after eight years military service.

Brown is an aircraft electrical systems technician with the 2nd Field Maintenance Squadron.

He is a 1974 graduate of Pass Christian High School.

New Sponsor

At a meeting in Hattiesburg last week we were informed that the Mississippi Council on Aging (MCOA) will receive Title XX funds from the Department of Public Welfare to administer our Recreation-Day Care Programs. This change will be effective Oct. 1.

As yet, we don't know what this will mean to our center. I hope it will mean more service to more seniors with less paper work. I also hope it will mean consolidation of some services or at least coordination.

With cuts in federal funds you would think the state would use more federal funds for the service they were designated for and less for administration at the state level. The governor is really trying to do this but the bureaucracy!

Jay Moon, director of MCOA, told the contractors and senior citizens at the meeting that he was working toward this end. We hope we will be able to see this in the future.

New Volunteers

We have been so fortunate at our center to have so many willing persons and businesses who assist us in providing expanded service to our seniors!

Some, like Carl Baldenhofer, have helped us since the beginning of our operation. Did you know Theresa James was one of our early volunteers? She was recommended for her position in RSVP when it was formed from her work here. Milly Fisher, too. We really have quality as well as quantity.

Two of our new volunteers are Lucille Luke, senior citizen, and Kelly Matthews, junior citizen. Both ladies have been working here for a short time.

Lucille has been teaching a pine needle weaving class. If you could see the baskets, candle holders, etc. this class has been making you would never buy pine needles again!

Kelly is a registered nurse and she has been helping us with blood pressures at the center on different days so more seniors will be able to keep track of their pressure. She will be happy to consult with any of you on diet or anything else that she is capable of doing.

With the rising cost of telephones and electricity the little raise in Social Security was eaten up before our people were able to catch-up. Anyone who thinks the senior citizens could pass up their cost-of-living increase for a couple of months has never tried to live on their income.

CONSTIPATION

One of the most effective, safe and natural methods of caring for such a condition is the application of scientific, proven chiropractic adjustments.

and prolonged use usually leads to larger doses and may become habit forming! These measures offer temporary relief but do little constructively to correct the basic cause of the constipation. Scientific application of gentle, relaxing spinal adjustments, free impinged nerves which control proper bowel action. Thus Chiropractic care enables the nerves to function normally and naturally again, restoring normal bowel activity. EDDIE LADNER AND TAMELA BILBO

Bilbo, Ladner to wed August 7

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dwain Bilbo of Carriere announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Tamela Joyce Bilbo, to Eddie Mark Ladner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ladner of Pass Christian.

She is the granddaughter of Rev. and Mrs. John E. Moore of Leetown, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Carr Bilbo.

He is the grandson of Mrs. Annie Ladner of Necaise Crossing and the late Julius Ladner and the late Mr. and Mrs. Armadee Ladner.

The bride-elect was graduated from Pearl River Central High School in 1981. She is employed at the First National Bank of Picayune and will attend Pearl River Junior College this fall where she will major in data processing.

The future bridegroom was graduated from Hancock North Central in 1976 and Pearl River Junior College in 1978 where he majored in electronics. He is currently employed by South Central Bell in Bay St. Louis.

Vows will be exchanged at 7 p.m. August 7 in Lee's Chapel Number Two Baptist Church in Leetown with a reception to follow in the fellowship hall.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Book Review

By JOE FILET

The Wonder Book edited by Henry Thomas, PhD, isn't new but it makes amusing and interesting reading.

The purpose of the book, which went to press in 1937, was to give brief facts of history, science, nature, literature, art, religion and philosophy.

To read it today would cause one to smile. Facts when this book was compiled are not necessarily facts today. Take for example an article entitled "The Miracle of Electricity" wherein the author explains that the mind is a matter of electricity, and in answer to the question "What is matter?" he replies "never mind."

In explaining the many roles of the electric maid he states: "An electric washing machine for $1.25 a year will do all your washing, rapidly, thoroughly and efficiently."

From cellar to attic the article enumerates the many household uses of electricity and had he taken out the adverb "cheaply" in praise of electricity as a maid of all work the article perhaps would still ring true. However, it does teach us to be less lavish with our descriptions.

Gentle in his criticisms, Thomas remarks: "There is so much good in the worst of us."

"And so much bad in the best of us."

"That it ill behooves any of us."

"To find fault with the rest of us."

The Wonder Book is full of curious facts. Short pithy little paragraphs on an amazing variety of subjects.

A slender volume entitled The Poems of Max Ehrmann should forever dispell several myths that get circulated from time to time about the origin of Desiderata, that beautifully worded little sermon that belongs:

"Go placidly amid the noise and the haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible, without surrender, be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others."

Desiderata appears on page 83 of Ehrmann's poems published posthumously in 1945.

Possibly to add mystery or give added intrigue, rumors get circulated and re-circulated about the origin of this unrhymed poem of wisdom and kindly advice.

A recent one stated: "This message was found scribbled on the walls of a 17th century Gothic Church in Europe."

Ehrmann's poetry is notable for its beauty, wisdom, and social vision. The book contains assurances, little sermons, prayers and worldly wisdom. It can be borrowed from the Bay St. Louis City-County Library.

Hancock 4-H riders win District honors

Four Hancock County 4-H Club members took top honors recently in District Horse Show competition, with two qualifying for a regional show in Oklahoma next week.

Earning a grand championship in the July district event in Columbia was Kassie Haas of Catahoula and her Appaloosa quarterhorse gelding Royal Rhode.

Haas and Royal Rhode also were judged first in showmanship at statewide competition the following week in Jackson. She showed three other horses in Jackson where she also placed second as a judge.

Also qualified for the Oklahoma City event is Juanita Loup, 18, of Diamondhead, who competed in western pleasure, reining, trail, western horsemanship, and showmanship events in Columbia.

Barry Necaise, 13, of Rocky Hill took a first place trophy in the saddle pony-pleasure class event in Columbia.

He also competed in pole bending, barrel racing and quadrangle stake racing. First place in pole bending at Columbia went to Jackie Odom, 9, of Leetown and her mount Pet. She also competed in barrel racing, western pleasure and halter class events.

The Hancock Club's junior judging team placed second in district competition. The team includes Shane LeBlanc, Diamondhead; Travis Favre, Kiln; and Tiffany Favre, also of Kiln, who placed third in individual judging.

SPORTS

Bay All Stars downed in Pensacola tourney

The Bay St. Louis 13-year-old Babe Ruth All Stars returned home Tuesday evening after a disappointing weekend in the Regional Championships in Pensacola, Fla.

The Bay dropped their first two games in the double elimination tournament; the first against Florida State Champions, Tallahassee, Saturday 10-3 and the second against North Carolina, 10-7 on Monday.

Wet rainy weather caused delays in the playing schedule and reeked havoc with the playing field.

Manager Ronald Artigues noted a game against Tallahassee on Saturday was delayed from Friday and the team played on a field "that was like a bucket of water."

The Bay had problems in the first inning of the game against Florida. A combination of control problems by pitcher Brian Laneaux along with several errors by the team put the Bay down seven runs before the first inning ended.

Brian Pitolo, relieved Laneaux in the second and allowed only one earned run for the remainder of the ball game.

Fans of the team and Artigues attributed the loss mostly to "first game jitters" although Artigues said Wednesday that Florida is still in the competition and he expects they will win the championship.

In the second game against North Carolina Monday the Bay appeared to have settled down to a degree.

The game went three extra innings before the North Carolina All Stars scored three runs in the 10th inning to decide the ball game.

Artigues noted the Bay had "plenty of opportunity to score" after the game was tied 7-7 in the fifth inning.

But North Carolina threw Bay runners out at the plate, at second and third base in several of the innings. The Bay left men on base more often than not in the final innings of the game.

Jay Artigues, Phillip Wittmann, Mark Logan, Pernell Galloway and Joey Rogers all had hits in the second game.

In the first game, Laneaux doubled, Logan went two for two as did Jessie Logan and several other Bay players.

Artigues noted some 300 fans from Bay St. Louis attended the games.

Harrison-Hancock All Stars eliminated in Sectional play

The Harrison-Hancock 13 and 14-year-old Little League All Stars were eliminated from the Sectional Tournament in Childersburg, Ala. last week after they were defeated Wednesday by the Louisiana State Champions and Thursday by Alabama.

On Monday the Harrison-Hancock Mississippi State Champions defeated the Arkansas State Champions 6-3 noted the Arkansas 13 and 14-year-olds are the same team which went to the World Series as 12-year-olds.

During the game against Harrison-Hancock the Arkansas pitcher's fast ball was clocked between 80-83 miles per hour.

Harrison-Hancock's Scott Favre was the winning pitcher in the Arkansas game. He allowed only three hits, walks and struck out 10.

leading 4-2 going into the top of the sixth inning.

Milton Lewis, who had pitched the five previous innings, was hit by a pitch in the top of the sixth and injured his throwing arm.

Several Louisiana runners gained a spot on the bases after Lewis was replaced, and when the Harrison-Hancock infield moved in for a play at the plate, several base hits managed to trickle through the infield and allowed Louisiana to score six runs in the sixth.

On Thursday, the Alabama All Stars jumped out to a four run lead in the first inning.

Favre, who pitched Monday pitched again on Thursday, allowed only five hits during the game, but three came in the first inning. Players on the Hancock-Harrison team include, Favre, Ron Ladner, Rodney Ladner, Kenny Beech, Milton Lewis, Matt Ladner, Kendal Necaise, Brian Bratton, Ricky Maufrey, Desmond Hoda and Michael Henry.

sas Monday, July 26, and Louisiana Wednesday 10-3.

The team, coached by Wayne Peterson and Bill Ahlers, lost the Monday game 19-0 and the Wednesday game 10-3.

Players, who won the state championship and enabled the team to continue on to Alabama include, Brian Ladner, Tommy Bond, Troy Wickton, Darren Maudray, Shannon Smith, William Moran, Kurt Smith, Travis Ladner, Casey Hoda, Keith Pavoll and Stanley Wahl.

BASEBALL CAMP: HANCOCK COUNTY 4-H CLUB members took top honors recently in District Horse Show competition, with two qualifying for a regional show in Oklahoma next week.

Marion County Rodeo slated

The Marion County Cattlemen's Association rodeo is scheduled Aug. 6 and 7 in Columbia.

"A unique feature of this rodeo is that we buck two sets of bulls, one set at the beginning of the show and one at the conclusion," said association president Paul Murray.

"Most people come to watch the bull riding and we provide a lot of excitement in that category," he added.

Two bull fighters will add to the entertainment, and other events will include bareback bronc riding, "Little Britches" bull riding, calf roping, team roping, and barrel racing.

The arena is located at the Livestock Showgrounds on Hwy 13 south of Columbia. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for children.

RESERVOIR FISHING

The "Farmweek" team is going fishing on the Ross Barnett Reservoir for its weekly feature to be broadcast at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Aug. 9, on Mississippi ETV.

According to field reporter James Booth, the feature will be about recreational fishing, and will include an interview with Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service fisheries specialist Tom Wellborn.

Each "Farmweek" program includes weather forecasts, farm news, tips for producers, market reports and notification of upcoming agricultural events. The series is a co-production of the Mississippi Center for Educational Television and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Senner gets Wildcat fullback assignment

Pearl River College has 12 lettermen and 25 sophomores returning from last year's 8-3-1 team, which won the south division and was runner-up for the overall Mississippi crown.

Another forty-five or so freshmen will also report to camp August 13, however, the big plus for head coach J.C. Arban may be the five senior college transfers who have decided to play for the Wildcats.

In a pre-season team depth chart, Arban has four of the five transfers listed as starters and the fifth is expected to move up quickly. "We tried to sign all these players when they finished high school," Arban said. "Now they are older and more experienced."

Jeff Waits is the Wildcat's 6'4", 225 pound left defensive tackle. He spent last year with the LSU Tigers. Scott Senner signed with Louisiana Tech when he graduated from St. Stanislaus High in Bay St. Louis. He is 5'11" and weighs 210 and has the nod at the Wildcat fullback spot.

Three of the newcomers played for the Petal High Panthers. James Jenkins and Tommy Hillman are big, strong 220 pound tight ends who head the list at that position. Bryan Hoda is a 6', 190 pound fullback linebacker. Jenkins and Hoda played for Mississippi College last year and Hillman played baseball at William Carey.

"We should be in pretty good shape when we mix these transfers in with our experienced sophomores and talented freshmen," Arban said.

The Wildcats begin practice August 13 with the first game scheduled for Thursday, September 2 against East Mississippi Press Day at PRC is August 21.

Ole Miss Brief

SOVIET-AMERICAN SHOW

"Comparison and Contrasts," an exhibition of 82 contemporary prints by artists from the Soviet Union and the American South, will be on display Aug. 3-Sept. 12 at The University of Mississippi Museums.

The exhibit was developed by the art departments of Ole Miss and Georgia Southern College under the co-direction of Dr. Tom Dewey II, associate professor of art history at Ole Miss, and Bernard Solomon, associate professor of art at Georgia Southern.

The exhibit, which is traveling under the auspices of the Southern Graphics Council, was originally arranged in 1979 as an exchange of art between Soviet and American artists.

The 41 Soviet prints selected for this original exchange are pictured and discussed in the exhibit's catalogue, along with the 41 American prints. However, Soviet-American tensions resulted in cancellation of the Russian participation and 41 new prints by Soviet artists were selected for the exhibition from the private collection of Dr. Norton Dodge of Maryland.

The works of three Mississippi artists are included in the American prints.

SUMMER WORKSHOP

Every summer the University of Southern Mississippi offers workshops for persons who are renewing teaching certificates, going to school to earn a degree, or just want added knowledge about a certain subject.

Persons from the Bay St. Louis area who attended a mathematics workshop included Beth Bryan.

She enrolled in "M-Teach, Mathematics for Teachers of the Early Adolescent," a contents course for middle school teachers.

Here's one deadline we can't afford to miss!

Are you one of the people who said "I'll take my chances... If I need Mobile Medic Ambulance Service I'll just pay more?"

Sure... and chances are that neither you or your family will need an ambulance this year. We hope not.

But, suppose everyone said "I'll take my chances"? There just might not be an ambulance service to respond when you need it most.

That's because membership is the backbone of Mobile Medic. Your $35.00 annual membership does more than provide your family with unlimited free emergency medical service. You make it possible for Mobile Medic to provide the finest emergency medical service available anywhere... and to improve it constantly.

We know that when times are tough it's tempting to put off joining and say "I'll take my chances."

That's why we've extended the Mobile Medic membership deadline for one week until Saturday, August 7th.

Think about it.

We believe you'll decide that it's one deadline we just can't afford to miss.

Miss Mississippi search underway

Applications are now being accepted throughout the Magnolia State for the annual Miss Mississippi USA Pageant to be presented again this year in Biloxi.

The contestants will be hosted at the Royal D'Iberville Hotel on the Biloxi Beach, January 28-29 and finals will be held at the Saenger Theatre for the Performing Arts on Saturday evening, January 29.

The Miss Mississippi USA Pageant is an official Miss USA-Miss Universe Contest.

There is no "talent" requirement; all judging is based upon poise, personality, beauty of face and figure.

Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 25 as of May 1, 1983, never have been married, and must have resided in the State of Mississippi for at least six months.

Residence at a college or university is acceptable.

All young ladies interested in competing for the Title must write to Miss Mississippi USA Pageant Headquarters, P.O. Box 1662, Gulfport, Mississippi 39501 by Nov. 30, 1982.

Letters must include a recent photo, a brief biography, and a telephone number.

The girl chosen as Miss Mississippi USA will represent the Magnolia State in the Miss USA Pageant, nationally televised on CBS-TV in May, 1983. In addition the winner will receive many prizes, including a new Oldsmobile for the year of her reign.

The current Miss Mississippi USA is 21-year-old Nancy Lynn Perkins of Marks, MS and a student at Belhaven College in Jackson.

She will be present for the entire event and will crown her successor at the Saenger Theatre for the Performing Arts on Jan. 29, 1983.

TIMBERLINE

By Rand Riedrich
Hancock County
Forest

Orders for tree seedlings to be delivered and planted this coming winter are now being accepted by the Mississippi Forestry Commission.

According to Nursery Director W.D. McNeel, the following species are available: loblolly, slash and longleaf pine, baldcypress, green ash, yellow poplar and a limited number of cottonwood cuttings.

Prices for seedlings (delivered to the county) will remain the same as last year, namely: loblolly and slash pine, $17 per thousand; longleaf pine, $19 per thousand; hardwoods and baldcypress, $66 per thousand; and cottonwood cuttings, $76 per thousand.

Pine seedlings may be purchased in orders of no less than one thousand. Hardwoods and baldcypress may be bought in quantities of 100, 250, 500 or 1,000 seedlings (or cuttings, in the case of Cottonwood).

No pine seed will be available from commission nurseries this year, but a list of private seed dealers will be supplied on request.

The Forestry Commission expects to have a total of 75 million trees for sale and distribution this year. Landowners who order earliest usually stand the best chance to obtain their needed species and quantity.

Official seedling order forms are available through any commission office or employee.

ETV Brief

BLUEGRASS KING
Bill Monroe and the Bluegrass Boys and Riders in the Sky take the stage on "Austin City Limits" at 8 p.m., Saturday, August 7, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

It is commonly agreed critics and bluegrass fans that bluegrass music would not exist if Bill Monroe had not assimilated the sounds and experiences of his Kentucky childhood into a musical form and named it after his home state. His musical influences included folk tunes from Europe, old Appalachian mountain songs, blues and gospel, but Monroe is responsible for the feeling behind bluegrass music as Americans have known it for more than 40 years.

During the second half of the concert, Riders in the Sky brings the sound of country-western/cowboy to the "Austin City Limits" stage. Their act comes complete with harmony, yodeling, instrumentals, flashy garb and home-on-the-range props.

The program will be rebroadcast at 2 p.m., Tuesday, August 10, on ETV.

POP JAZZ
Jazz drummer extraordinaire Buddy Rich joins John Williams and the Boston Pops Orchestra on "Evening at Pops" at 8 p.m., Monday, August 9, on the Mississippi ETV Network. The program will be rebroadcast at 2 p.m., Friday, August 13, and 6 p.m., Sunday, August 15.

Mississippi's best prospect for stable growth is in service industries—transportation, food and finance, and other jobs that are vital to a growing population, Dr. Cobb said. He noted that the South's well-developed interstate highway system is also beneficial to the region's industrial growth.

Mississippi Executive Department Jackson

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the children of Mississippi are one of its greatest and most valuable resources; and

WHEREAS, Mississippi children are its adults of tomorrow and will be the contributors to and the designers of the future progress of Mississippi; and

WHEREAS, Mississippi endeavors to prepare its children to become responsible and productive adults by providing quality education, by seeking to eradicate alcohol, drug, and child abuse, and in various other ways encourages the total well-being of children; and

WHEREAS, Mississippi would like to have its children realize that they are an important and vital part of today's and the future's society:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, William F. Winter, Governor of the State of Mississippi, do hereby proclaim August 8, 1982, as in Mississippi, and urge all Mississippians to recognize and to honor all of Mississippi's children and to participate in appropriate celebrations planned for that day in their behalf.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed.

DONE at the Capitol in the City of Jackson, the 8th day of July in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and eighty-two, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the two hundred and seventh.

Technical jargon necessary to keep pace with blossoming scientific developments

Plant breeders use words like floriferous, grandiflora, triploid, interspecific hybrids and tissue culture. These represent the simpler terms.

"Technical jargon helps scientists communicate," said Jim Perry, a landscape horticulturist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "Scientists have more to communicate these days."

Perry said the past decade, scientists have made more basic discoveries in genetics than they can immediately put to use.

"Our people who love garden flowers are already benefitting from these breakthroughs," Perry said.

"Now that scientists can make hybrids between certain species, they are going back to the wild to collect fragrant flowering plants that stand up to diseases, insects, rain and heat."

Perry said the All-America Selections in flowers released each spring represent the newest and best from plant breeders worldwide and offer gardeners the key to having the newest flower developments.

Ambrose to head Carey Art Department

Artist Charles E. Ambrose has been named chairman of the art department at William Carey College. He was formerly at Mississippi University for Women where he headed the art department for 12 years, building it into the largest in the state with 350 art majors and a staff of 12.

Before accepting the chairmanship at MUW, Ambrose was professor of art and artist in residence at the University of Southern Mississippi for 20 years.

Born in Memphis, Tenn., Ambrose received the bachelor of fine arts and master of arts degrees from the University of Alabama with a major in drawing and painting and a minor in sculpture and graphics.

He studied portrait painting at the Jerry Farnsworth School of Art, Cape Cod, Mass. Ambrose will begin teaching a number of courses at William Carey's Coast campus this fall.

Safety Tips

It's What Up Front That Counts

A study of more than 900 motorcycle accidents in southern California has shown that most accidents happen right in front of the rider. In fact, only seven percent occur from the rear. Unfortunately, the biggest problem for motorcyclists is other drivers—they just aren't looking out for riders.

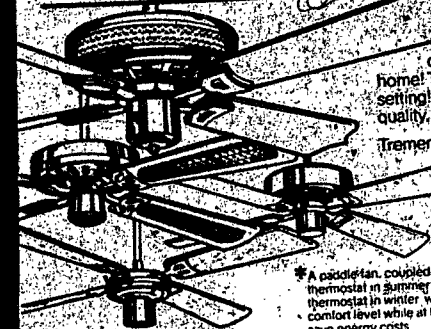

The best tip for motorcyclists is always be on the watch-out for potential problems. But there are ways riders can make themselves more visible to other drivers, according to the Motorcycle Safety Foundation:

- Ride with the cycle's headlight on at all times. Most new cycles come from the factory with a headlight that shines when the ignition is turned on.
- Wear bright colored clothing—especially on the upper part of your body—when you ride.

TIME MANAGEMENT EXPERT—Mrs. Mark (Gwen) Blackledge of Bay St. Louis recently received an associate degree in medical administration from Phillips College in Gulfport. Mrs. Blackledge attended the college full-time for two years along with finding time for her five children. Beaming over mother's accomplishment are, from left, Mark Jr., 10; Josette, 9; Luke, 8; Matthew, 7; and Angel, 5. The degree helped Mrs. Blackledge secure her current position in the administrative office of Sidel Memorial Hospital.

Martin Marietta cited in assisting small, disadvantaged businesses

Martin Marietta Aerospace has been cited for its "outstanding achievement" in subcontracting to small, disadvantaged businesses.

The Defense Logistics Agency (DLA) presented the national "Award for Contractor Excellence in Assisting Disadvantaged Business Firms" to the firm's Michoud division.

The agency is the administrator of Martin Marietta's external tank contract with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Martin Marietta's Michoud

division was selected as the government contractor "most successful" in promoting the objectives of the Small/Disadvantaged Business Program.

Lieutenant Colonel Earl L. McConnell, U.S. Air Force, head of the DLA office in New Orleans.

He added that the company's "aggressive and positive program has been totally successful and is consistent with national objectives to increase contract awards to small disadvantaged firms."

Martin Marietta competed with more than 800 companies for the award.

The award was presented by Brigadier General Charles F. Drenn, U.S. Army, DLA deputy director.

During the last three years, the Michoud division was awarded $125 million in subcontracts to small and disadvantaged firms for local construction, re-roofing, manufacturing, facilities, small machine shop work, and the procurement of sensors, vent lines, seals, and valves.

Approximately 30 percent of the work was performed by small firms in Louisiana, principally in the New Orleans area.

Another 25 percent went to California, with the remainder throughout the United States.

Martin Marietta has been active in small business subcontracting since the early 1960s.

The award is particularly significant since New Orleans Mayor Ernest N. Morial recently expressed concern about the amount of subcontracting being awarded to minority-owned local firms.

The effort to increase the number and value of subcontracts let by Martin Marietta to small and disadvantaged firms was spearheaded by recently deceased New Orleans resident Phillip L. Greenwood, as director of material at the Michoud division.

Martin Marietta also recently received the 1982 "Private Sector Support Award" from the American Association of Minority Enterprise Small Business Investment Companies.

This award is given to the company that "exhibits the highest ideal of the American spirit of private sector partnership through its support of minority business enterprise."

Martin Marietta, at its Michoud division, in New Orleans, East, manufactures the giant external fuel tanks for NASA's Space Shuttle program under contract to the Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Alabama.

Internal bleeding tests available in South Mississippi

Some 60,000 people in the Southern Louisiana and Mississippi area have availed themselves of the opportunity to be screened for hidden internal bleeding, frequently a danger signal of colon-rectal cancer, in a community-wide testing program.

It is predicted that about 40,000 more will take part in the screening process by picking up a free test kit offered by a local drug chain, following instructions, and then mailing in the specimens to the Ochsner Medical Institutions in New Orleans.

Dr. William A. Ferrante, head of the section on gastroenterology at the Ochsner Clinic, points out that "colon-rectal cancer is one of the most common forms of the disease and one that is most easily cured by surgery if detected before it has spread."

The free testing kit includes a white card which must be carefully filled out and returned to Ochsner with the specimens.

The card will be used to reply to individuals concerning their test results.

Dr. Ferrante emphasized that persons who are notified of positive results should not necessarily conclude that cancer has been found.

As an ulcer, bleeding gums or a hemorrhoidal condition.

Of the 1,000 kits which have been received by Ochsner in the first week of the program, some 25 have been found to be positive and those individuals will be asked to see their doctors, Dr. Ferrante said.

In order to answer questions individuals may have about their test, Ochsner has established a hotline where information is available during the workday, by calling the 383-3880. Volunteers from the local chapter of the American Cancer Society are working with Ochsner personnel in the processing of test kits as well as in mailing notices of results to participants.

Kits are available from all Eckerd Drug stores.

The testing is thought to be especially important in Southeast Louisiana where the incidence of colon and rectal cancer rose from 50 percent of the national average in 1947 to 85 percent of the national average in 1977, according to national health authorities.

Researchers are currently examining the role drinking water, diet and heredity play in the incidence of the disease.

The test is recommended for everyone over the age of 40 years but is especially important for those in the population considered at "high risk."

Similar mass screening projects have already taken place in Dallas, Houston, Miami, Tampa and Jacksonville and will shortly be held in other major cities throughout the country.

The test kit is provided by SmithKline-French, the pharmaceutical company.

All distribution of the kits is handled by the Eckerd drug store chain. Ochsner provides the free medical testing. WWL-TV covered the project in a five-part series aired last week.

Data on test results will not only be sent to the individual, but will be fed into the Ochsner computer so that its physicians can cooperate with doctors in other cities where testing occurs. The purpose is to compile statistics and report on the results of this series of massive screenings.

Petroleum land management course established at Ole Miss

A petroleum land management program has been established at The University of Mississippi in an effort to meet a critical need for trained professionals in the petroleum industry.

The program, which will be offered this fall through the Ole Miss School of Business Administration, is one of the first of its kind east of the Mississippi River, according to Dr. Randy Boxx, associate dean of the business school.

Students beginning the curriculum during the fall semester may take courses in oil and gas law and the fundamentals of oil and gas leasing, Dr. Boxx said.

"The petroleum industry must have professionally trained young men and women who are prepared to help solve contemporary energy issues," Dr. Boxx said. "Recent evidence indicates, however, that the supply of trained personnel is inadequate to meet the demands of the industry. What we plan to do through this petroleum land management program is to meet that need."

Dr. Boxx noted that Mississippi currently ranks tenth among states producing oil and natural gas and that the growth rate of the industry within the state exceeds that of the nation as a whole. Such facts emphasize the need for this type of program, he said.

Students who complete the programs will receive the bachelor of business administration degree with a petroleum land management emphasis, Dr. Boxx explained. Regular courses of several academic departments, including law, accounting, geology, geological engineering, liberal arts and business, will comprise the curriculum.

Graduates of this new program will have the background necessary for several career options in the petroleum industry, including landman, lease broker, management trainee for an oil producing company and a self-employed oil operator, Dr. Boxx pointed out.

"The petroleum industry is the most exciting factor in the state's economic future," Dr. Boxx said. "Many of our young people look to this industry as a means of achieving their goals and ambitions. The industry admits to a critical need for trained professionals. It is our hope that a joint effort between Ole Miss and the petroleum industry will not only help our youth fulfill their dreams but also help our state's economy."

More information on the program is available through Dr. Boxx, School of Business Administration, University, Ms 38677 or telephone (601) 232-5820.

Good principals forsake desire to be loved for task of encouraging progress Scheduling the morning bus run...supervising the Friday evening dance...meeting with a parent advisory group... Is this what occupies the time of a secondary school principal?

"The principal's job continues to evolve and expand," points out Scott Thomson, executive director, National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Today's principal understands and accepts the greater emphasis being placed on his or her instructional leadership responsibilities.

As education was going through its infancy in the United States, a principal teacher developed in schools, according to Thomson. That individual was perhaps the most skilled or most experienced teacher and had the job of working with other teachers in managing their classrooms.

"Today the principal has much more to do, but the effective principal still plays an important role in recommending new programs, designing course content, helping teachers strengthen their skills, evaluating the instructional program, and assessing the needs of the student," Thomson reports.

Other people have pointed out the important role principals have in instructional leadership, including Fred Hechinger, former New York Times education editor and now president, New York Times Foundation.

decline. In each case, the rise or fall could readily be traced to the quality of the principal."

"They (good principals) forsake the desire to be loved for the hard task of monitoring students' progress," contends Robert Benjamin of the Cincinnati Post.

"They set achievement goals for their students, and they judge their teachers and themselves by them."

In serving as the instructional and educational leader of the school, any principal must be concerned with making sure that the learning process is as effective as possible and the school has a harmonious social structure so that everyone is working together to achieve the school's goals.

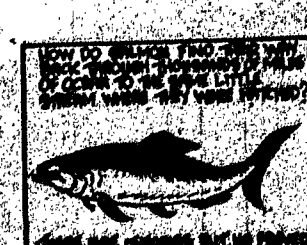

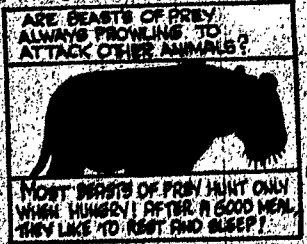

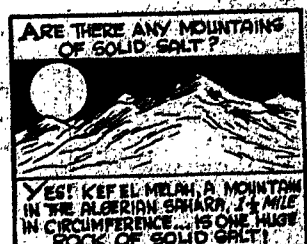

This involves, according to Thomson, providing training opportunities for the staff so that they are aware of the latest instructional methods and motivating staff to their best possible performance.

Principals must also know the latest instructional innovations and encourage staff to understand them and incorporate them into their classrooms if appropriate. The principal sets the tone for the school, and if his or her emphasis is on instruction that will be reflected in the rest of the staff.

Assessment is another major instructional role for the principal. He or she determines how student learning needs will be tested so that appropriate instructional programs can be prepared for all students.

"Certainly, all members of the school staff play important roles in helping students learn," Thomson says. "There's no doubt that learning can't happen without strong teachers. But the principal has a major responsibility for the instructional program of any school, and today's effective principals are performing as instructional leaders."

Waveland Junior Players conclude successful season

The Waveland Junior Players closed their first summer season with a final performance of "The Book of Spells" Sunday in the Waveland Civic Center.

The play, produced by Jeanne-Marie Bell and directed by Dottie Overal, is the story of King Nicholas (Bert Dean) who turns his family and his subjects into animals, birds, and cannons in order to stop their constant demands upon him.

The cast included Nina Simpson, P.J. Manfrey, Anna Marie Dean, Derek Stechmann, Jan Frommeyer, Lisa McGill, Allison Miller, and Juleigh Church.

Also, Shelley Dietrich, Jolie Fitch, Brandi Bradley, Beth Stechmann, Jamie Butsch, Jerry West and Tammy Bergeron.

Apprentice crew members were Kristin Ling assistant director, Scott Mitteer, Shane Rogers, Julie Schaefer, Robbie Butsch, Melinda Miller, Annie Thomas-Hall, Jennifer Burrows, and Jennifer Mitteer.

Adults who volunteered their time and experience include Frances Mitteer, Toyann Fitch, Piccola Dietrich, Marie Bernard, Russell Fitch and Nan Bradley.

The Waveland Players plan to make the Junior Players an annual summertime activity for youngsters in the Bay-Waveland community.

Mallini attends USM camp

Bay St. Louis students were among those attending the University of Southern Mississippi's two-week Band and Orchestra Camp.

Local students included Keith Mallini of St. Stanislaus, clarinet.

Approximately 100 seventh through 12th grade students representing over 40 schools in four states attended the camp for individual and group instructions from USM professors, students and several guest band directors from area high schools.

The camp was part of the 30th annual Southern Fine Arts Festival.

Troop 217 plans 3-day excursion

Our Lady of The Gulf Parish Troop 217, Boy Scouts of America, Friday will depart from the church at 8 a.m. on a three-day excursion to Vicksburg.

Joining the local scouts will be international Scout leaders Robert W. Ludgate of England and David C. Thomas of Australia who have been serving on the 1982 summer camp staff at Salmen Scout Reservation in Hancock County.

The OLG Scouts will be under the direction of Scoutmaster Ray A. Masson of Pass Christian.

Children are non-violent in first few years of life

In either case they seldom get what they want. Children like this find it difficult as they grow up to do well in school, at work, in marriage or in any other important life experiences.

Parents must watch their own behavior. For those who have always been shouters, name callers and hitters this may be difficult to do. Some parents don't even recognize that they are that kind of person until they see their children imitating them.

No matter how difficult it seems, the effort to change this pattern is worthwhile. It can help spare children a lifetime of frustration and difficulty. You can tell when you are in trouble when your child is doing something that you cannot stand and cannot stop. That is the time to get some professional help. (Excerpted from "Your Child From One to Six," HEW publication, Richard H. Granger, MD).

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information on the social and physical development of children from birth to six years old, write to Growing Child, PO Box 820N, Lafayette, IN 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Young children rarely fight in the first few years of life.

But some children, as they get older, will react to frustration by fighting, hitting other children or adults, provoking fights by teasing and calling names or by using bad language.

This is the way some children show or express their feelings, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

Whether children continue to use fighting as a way of settling problems or taking out their disappointments depends very much on how the parents handle it. Obviously, hitting children is not a good way to set an example to stop them from hitting others.

Instead it is most important to set firm limits and indicate disapproval of that sort of behavior without getting violent about it.

Children do imitate each other's behavior and some children learn bad habits from other children. But they imitate their parents even more.

If they hear shouting and see fighting at home they will tend to do the same thing in their play and other activities. The child who is always fighting and bullying others is in trouble. Such children are usually feared and disliked by other children and adults.

They find themselves more and more left out by other children which makes them angrier and even more ready to fight.

Children have to learn other ways of dealing with difficult situations. Parents have to help them by setting a useful example.

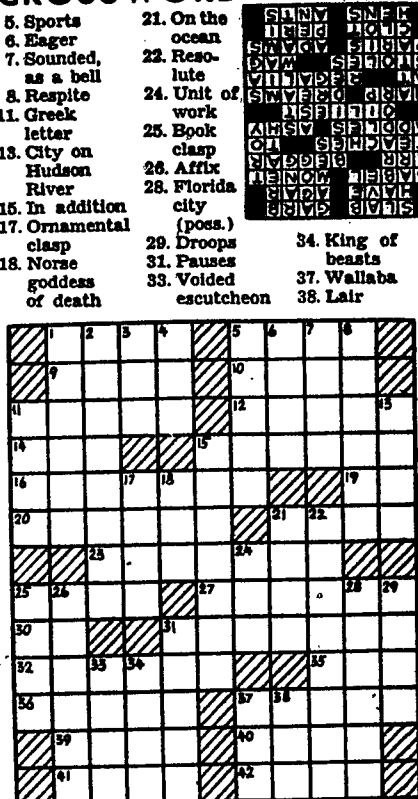

The child who is always a victim—always being bullied or picked on by other children—is probably also repeating behavior learned at home. These are often children whose parents are never satisfied with them and are always belittling them.

In the same way the child who is always being beaten at home may learn no other way of relating to people but to be beaten by them in one way or another.

Both kinds of children have a very poor opinion of themselves. They can seldom handle problems in a calm, strong way because they have no confidence in themselves. Instead they either become victims or they strike out in rage from time to time at their frustrations in always being the victim.
